Commissioners provide important leadership to ensure quality Scouting.

The commissioner service is looking for men and women volunteers who would like to serve Scouting by sharing their knowledge and experiences with other Scouters.

Successful Scout units do not just happen. They are made. They are made by leaders who are trained, coached, and counseled along the way by those who went before. You probably had someone help you as you learned how to be a Scout leader so you know how important it is to have guidance in developing a successful Pack, Troop, Team, or Crew. You have an opportunity to help other leaders be successful by serving as a unit commissioner. By helping leaders build strong units you will be ensuring that the values of Scouting are brought effectively to more youth.

Remember: "It's All For The Boys..."

Q: What does a commissioner do?

A: A commissioner provides direct coaching and counseling of adult leaders to help ensure the success of Scout units.

Q: How much time is required?

A: It will vary depending on how much help is needed. A minimum of a monthly contact with a unit is expected.

Q: I don't think I have enough experience. Don't you need many years in Scouting to be a Commissioner?

A: While some experience in Scouting is desirable you are not expected to be a "super" Scouter with many years in the program. A desire to help and strengthen Scouting is more important. Training is provided, resource materials are available and you will be coached by experienced commissioners.

Q: Will my own unit benefit if I am a commissioner?

A: Commissioners find that their training and contacts with Scouters in other units help them learn more about Scouting. The lessons learned through these experiences help them provide an even better program in their own units.
